

The core solution involves a Python backend processing HTML form data and passing it to the Gemini API (`gemini-3.5-flash-lite`). Exception handling and a 10-second timeout parameter are implemented to ensure the server doesn't hang during API latency.